PART TWO: ASSURANCE OF STUDENT LEARNING
(See the CAA website for examples of items 1, 2, and 3.)

1. List the student learning objectives of this course:

   Sample learning objectives for class on gender theory
   A. Examine and evaluate the evolution of gender/queer theory
   B. Identify connections between public mediated discourses and gender reification
   C. Analyze and evaluate gender disciplining strategies
   D. Apply gender/queer theory to individual research projects

   a. If this is a general education course, indicate which objectives are designed to help students achieve one or more of the following goals of general education and university-wide assessment:
      - EIU graduates will write and speak effectively.
      - EIU graduates will think critically.
      - EIU graduates will function as responsible citizens.

   b. If this is a graduate-level course, indicate which objectives are designed to help students achieve established goals for learning at the graduate level:
      - Depth of content knowledge
        Addressed through learning objectives A, B, C
      - Effective critical thinking and problem solving Addressed through learning objectives B, C, D
      - Effective oral and written communication Addressed through learning objective D
      - Advanced scholarship through research or creative activity
        Addressed through learning objective D

   2. Identify the assignments/activities the instructor will use to determine how well students attained the learning objectives:

4. For technology-delivered and other nontraditional-delivered courses/sections, address the following:
   a. Describe how the format/technology will be used to support and assess students’ achievement of the specified learning objectives:
   b. Describe how the integrity of student work will be assured:
   c. Describe provisions for and requirements of instructor-student and student-student interaction, including the kinds of technologies that will be used to support the interaction (e.g., e-mail, web-based discussions, computer conferences, etc.):
      N/A

5. For courses numbered 4750-4999, specify additional or more stringent requirements for students enrolling for graduate credit. These include:
   a. course objectives;
   b. projects that require application and analysis of the course content; and
   c. separate methods of evaluation for undergraduate and graduate students.
      N/A

6. If applicable, indicate whether this course is writing-active, writing-intensive, or writing-centered, and describe how the course satisfies the criteria for the type of writing course identified. (See Appendix *.)
   N/A

PART III: OUTLINE OF THE COURSE

Provide a week-by-week outline of the course’s content. Specify units of time (e.g., for a 3-0-3 course, 45 fifty-minute class periods over 15 weeks) for each major topic in the outline. Provide clear and sufficient details about content and procedures so that possible questions of overlap with other courses can be addressed.
For technology-delivered or other nontraditional-delivered courses/sections, explain how the course content “units” are sufficiently equivalent to the traditional on-campus semester hour units of time described above.

PART IV: PURPOSE AND NEED

1. Explain the department’s rationale for developing and proposing the course.

This proposed change reflects a disciplinary movement as well as accommodating curriculum changes. The previous course focused on public address, particularly presidential public address. While this is still a thriving area of inquiry within rhetorical studies, the discipline as a whole is moving toward a more critical, interdisciplinary model. This change is also accepting of curricular changes toward a more inclusive cultural studies curriculum. This is a rotating topics class. Aside from the topic discussed above, other topics could include contemporary or historic public address, visual rhetoric, rhetoric of science, environmental rhetoric, classical rhetoric, etc.

   a. If this is a general education course, you also must indicate the segment of the general education program into which it will be placed, and describe how the course meets the requirements of that segment.

   N/A

   b. If the course or some sections of the course may be technology delivered, explain why.

   N/A

2. Justify the level of the course and any course prerequisites, co-requisites, or registration restrictions.

The level is appropriate because CMN 5180 should only be taken by graduate students.

3. If the course is similar to an existing course or courses, justify its development and offering.

   a. If the contents substantially duplicate those of an existing course, the new proposal should be discussed with the appropriate chairpersons, deans, or curriculum committees and their responses noted in the proposal.

   b. Cite course(s) to be deleted if the new course is approved. If no deletions are planned, note the exceptional need to be met or the curricular gap to be filled.

   This is a revision of an existing course.

4. Impact on Program(s):

   a. For undergraduate programs, specify whether this course will be required for a major or minor or used as an approved elective.

   b. For graduate programs, specify whether this course will be a core requirement for all candidates in a degree or certificate program or an approved elective.

   This course will be a required class in the Critical/Cultural Studies concentration area for the MA in Communication Studies.

If the proposed course changes a major, minor, or certificate program in or outside of the department, you must submit a separate proposal requesting that change along with the course proposal. Provide a copy of the existing program in the current catalog with the requested changes noted.

A proposal outlining the changes to the degree program will be submitted separately.
PART V: IMPLEMENTATION

1. Faculty member(s) to whom the course may be assigned:
   Marita Gronnvoll, Linda Scholz, Richard G. Jones and other qualified faculty.

   If this is a graduate course and the department does not currently offer a graduate program, it must document that it employs faculty qualified to teach graduate courses.

2. Additional costs to students:

   Include those for supplemental packets, hardware/software, or any other additional instructional, technical, or technological requirements. (Course fees must be approved by the President’s Council.)

   None.

3. Text and supplementary materials to be used (Include publication dates):

   Course Reader

PART VI: COMMUNITY COLLEGE TRANSFER

If the proposed course is a 1000- or 2000-level course, state either, "A community college course may be judged equivalent to this course" OR "A community college course will not be judged equivalent to this course." A community college course will not be judged equivalent to a 3000- or 4000-level course but may be accepted as a substitute; however, upper-division credit will not be awarded.

PART VII: APPROVALS

Date approved by the department or school 3/23/2011

Date approved by the college curriculum committee 3/30/2011

Date approved by the Honors Council (if this is an honors course) ___________________

Date approved by CAA _____________ CGS _____________
In writing-active courses, frequent, brief writing activities and assignments are required. Such activities -- some of which are to be graded -- might include five-minute in-class writing assignments, journal keeping, lab reports, essay examinations, short papers, longer papers, or a variety of other writing-to-learn activities of the instructor's invention. Writing assignments and activities in writing-active courses are designed primarily to assist students in mastering course content, secondarily to strengthen students' writing skills. In writing-intensive courses, several writing assignments and writing activities are required. These assignments and activities, which are to be spread over the course of the semester, serve the dual purpose of strengthening writing skills and deepening understanding of course content. At least one writing assignment is to be revised by the student after it has been read and commented on by the instructor. In writing-intensive courses, students' writing should constitute no less than 35% of the final course grade. In writing-centered courses (English 1001G, English 1002G, and their honors equivalents), students learn the principles and the process of writing in all of its stages, from inception to completion. The quality of students' writing is the principal determinant of the course grade. The minimum writing requirement is 20 pages (5,000 words).
