

Typical urban storefronts in Southeast Asia

A small store in Laos with an eerily familiar brand name... no 'blue light' specials, though!

In Southeast Asia, motorbikes are ubiquitous...

... and, of course, there has to be parking for them!

Logistics are often 'creative'...despite rough roads!

Out in the country, roads do not get better...but the views do!

Frequent flooding can be a major obstacle in the tropics...

...but the views can be amazing!

Local markets with happy vendors...

...with innovative technology – these fish actually turn on a rotisserie-like grill!

This is where the fish come from

Rice fields everywhere – what a beautiful sight!

Global franchises everywhere...

...as are local entrepreneurs emulating global food cravings!

Do....or do not?

In any case...Southeast Asia still leaves much to be discovered!
