

Jim DeVaney of Newton left Sunday evening for St. Louis, where he will apply for enlistment in the Coast Guard. The Coast Guard, which in time of peace is charged with the prevention of smuggling and the rescue of vessels in distress and their crews, is now serving with the Navy.

Marvin Marshall of Newton, who enlisted in the United States Navy a couple of months ago, was called to active duty last week. He left for Norfolk, Virginia, Friday, to report. He will go into the construction corps or "Seabees," who will be used to build advanced bases in various parts of the world.
