

---

Harold Leffler, former principal of the Newton Public school, is getting along nicely from a gall bladder attack, except for a focus of infection thought to be from his teeth. He was shook up in a minor wreck about ten days ago, when a car crashed into his machine in St. Louis when he had stopped for a signal light.

may 22, 1942