

Great Lakes, January 6.  Three Newton bluejackets are becoming accustomed to the life of a sailor as new recruits at the United States Naval Training Station here.

They are getting into fighting shape through participation in the Navy's rugged physical toughening program, learning the fundamentals of seamanship, and being indoctrinated with Naval customs and procedure. Each recruit also is given a series of aptitude tests designed as an aid in placing him in the type of work for which he is best qualified.

Upon completing "boot" training the new bluejackets will be granted a nine-day leave, at which time they probably will be home.

The new recruits are Robert G. Davidson, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest G. Davidson; Carl E. Tolliver, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd D. K. Price, Route One, Newton; and Basil E. Ping, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Ping, of Route Five, Newton.
