

Capt. Bergbower Transports Wounded U. S. Soldiers

Oct. 24, 1943

Capt. and Mrs. Tom Bergbower, were here over the week end for a visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Bergbower. Capt. Bergbower, who is with the Army Transport Command, employed as transport pilot, had recently made a trip from Denver to Chicago, bringing back as passengers a number of United States Soldiers who had been invalided home from Guadalcanal, where they had been wounded in the battles with Japanese in the South Pacific.
