In Company 1474, Tenth battalion, two Bogota men are receiving their initial naval indoctrination at the United States Naval Training Center at Great Lakes. A Hidalgo man is also at Great Lakes.

Their "boot" training consists of instruction in seamanship, military drill and general naval procedure. During this period a series of aptitude tests will be taken by the recruits to determine whether they will be assigned to a Naval Service School or to immediate active duty at sea.

Their recruit training completed, these men will spend a period of leave at home. They are: Joseph J. Volk, 21, and Lewis E. Green, 19, of Bogota, and Jesse D. Cherry, 19, of Hidalgo.

Private Raymond A. Swisher writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Swisher of near Newton, stating he had left the United States about June 3 and landed in England in seven days, securing prisoners that were captured during the invasion and bringing them back across to the United States, after a few days stay in England. They were longer on their way back than going over.

He said the people were good to them there and the girls were crazy over the American boys. He added England was all right but to see the old U. S. A. and breathe its air again was better. "I can't tell you where I am, only on the east coast, but just for a short stay. When and where next we don't know."
