LOCAL BOY WOUNDED TWICE IN FIGHTING IN FRANCE

Billy Reed, son of Sherman Reed, of Newton, arrived home Sunday for a 21-day furlough to be spent with relatives and friends here.

He has been back in the states since March 7, having been flown across the Atlantic from a hospital in England and making the trip in one day.

Billy was wounded in France, having suffered a wound in the face and in his right leg. He is now wearing a metal plate beneath his right eye and in his left leg.

Following his furlough here he will return to a veterans hospital for further operations and treatment.
